TRACTION COMPANY WANTS SETTLEMENT

Asks Council if City Intends to Go on With Hearing of Non-Service Action.

Through a communication filed with the city council yesterday the Janesville Traction company, by its attorney, Thomas L. Nolan, inquired whether the city intends to go on with the hearing of the action brought by the city attorney last winter to compel the independent company to operate their cars on North Washington street. The action was taken in pursuance of an order of the common council adopted January 8, directing the city attorney to inquire into the failure of the Traction company to maintain said service. The company alleges as the reason for non-service the impossibility of keeping the tracks free from snow and ice and protests that the city attorney, instead of taking the matter up with the officials of the company, soon thereafter filed a petition with the railway commission. Service was resumed as soon as possible in the spring.

Other business taken up by the council was the acceptance of the bond and oath of City Engineer C. V. Korch; the granting of the petition of A. A. Hartman for the transfer of liquor license, 13 North Franklin street to Henry Streiff; and the acceptance of the bond of Mr. Streiff. The bond of G. A. Grossman to operate a second-hand store at 107 North Main street was also accepted.

Leslie R. Treat was granted permission to use a portion of South

Main street during progress of work at 58 South Main street, providing the flow of water was not obstructed by the use of the street, and the city held harmless from any damage resulting therefrom. Chester Baumgartner was given permission to use a portion of Prospect avenue for similar purposes, during work on the property of Otto E. Smith, with the same conditions imposed.

The anti-scurvy ordinance, which was given its first and second readings at the last regular meeting, was not brought up for consideration yesterday but will in all probability be given its third reading at the next meeting.

The absence from the city of City Attorney W. H. Dougherty made necessary the postponement of the criminal cases brought by the Jeffris, Carlo and Lovejoy estate in protest at valuations set on certain pieces of property by the board of review of the re-assessment. These cases, five in number, were to come before the court this week. Judge Grimm will not return to the local court until next Tuesday afternoon, when the case of the Shoop Eye Milling Company vs. P. Amore et al. will be tried.

SPECIAL SESSION PASSED GAME LAWS

Inland Streams in Which Trout Have Been Planted May Not Be Seined or Fished With Minnow Nets.

Game Warden Mason calls attention of the hunters and fishermen to the new game laws passed in the special session of the legislature recently. It is now unlawful to use minnow seines or nets of any description or kind in inland lakes, rivers or streams where trout have been planted by the state, or in Turtle Creek which runs through Watworth and Rock counties; unless the operation is supervised by the state game warden or his deputies. This means that in all of the streams in which trout have been planted no one who is fishing there may use a dip net to catch bait or larger fish. It is thought that the young trout will be protected from wholesale gleaning by this restriction.

When the Weeds Begin To Grow.

And your back's too lame to hoe,
Just think of this little ad
And the chances that you had
To keep your garden clean and fine
By working just one-half the time,
If you would spend but just one dime.

For directions how to make a little cultivator for almost nothing, that's easier, and quicker than a hoe, and it's so simple even a boy can make it and cultivate his garden quicker than a man with a hoe. It will be worth the price if it saves but 2 hours, and it will save you many times that in a season.

RAILWAY TERMINALS.

One of the heaviest items of expense in the railroad business is the terminal station of modern design and equipment. The twenty million dollar station recently completed by the Chicago and Northwestern road in Chicago, is a marvel of beauty and convenience, but it is a toy compared with the new Pennsylvania terminal in New York, or the New York Central in process of completion. Speaking of the latter a correspondent for the Technical World Magazine gives the following interesting description, which is well worth reading:

"The most wonderful thing about the new Grand Central terminal station in New York City is that it is built in the identical spot occupied by the old without interfering with or even inconveniencing traffic. It is no unusual thing for railroad engineers to replace a bridge or other structure without interfering with traffic; but such a feat has never before been performed on so vast a scale. In the last nine years the engineers have removed two hundred old buildings and twenty-five miles of pipes and sewers from the area added to the enlarged terminal, built an entire new sewer system to take care of the drainage from the terminal area, replaced the busiest railroad tunnel in the world with a new one, took down an old station and replaced with a larger one, sunk the tracks to an average depth of fifty feet below the surface, largely through rock, and replaced it with steel and concrete, all without injuring a passenger or seriously delaying a train.

"Another remarkable thing—this greatest of passenger terminals will cost nothing; or perhaps it would be more intelligible to say that while the entire improvement will cost $150,000,000, the railroad will get it all back without touching its transportation revenues. So vast an improvement in so valuable an area was quite beyond the means even of two such big corporations as the New York Central and the New York, New Haven and Hartford, which will also use the terminal. So the two companies out-branded the Boston efficiency prophet himself by burying the entire terminal deep in the solid rock, roofing the excavation with steel and concrete and building a town over it.

"One very large, commercial building twenty stories high is already completed and rented. Two enormous office buildings, to be twenty stories high ultimately, are finished up to the seventh story and occupied as offices by the two railroad companies. On one corner adjoining the station will be a twenty-story hotel that will rival any other in the city in the luxury of its appointments and the altitude of its charges. At the opposite corner on the forty-second street frontage will be another hotel of equal size but with a rate schedule so much modified that it will not be necessary for the prospective guest to mortgage his farm to rent a room for a night. An opera house and a new home for the National Academy of Design are proposed for the town that is to rise over the terminal. Altogether seventeen city blocks formerly taken up with unsightly, noisy, dirty railroad yards or cheap private structures will be added to the available building area in the choicest part of the metropolis, not to mention a fine broad avenue and a number of cross streets where such things did not exist before."

The Pennsylvania terminal and tunnel cost about the same amount of money, and both stations are in the heart of the city close to Broadway and Fifth avenue. Some of the watered stock, so much discussed by busy reformers, is represented in these two great enterprises. Most any sort of a whining can denounce railroads, but it requires brains and money to deliver the goods.

The old Trinity church property in New York, at the lower end of Manhattan Island, includes ten churches and some five hundred dwellings. The property is in the business district, and if it could be used for business purposes, has an estimated value of $500,000,000. The little church and cemetery on Broadway could be sold for $20,000,000. The rentals of the property bring in about one million dollars a year. Many of the houses are old tenements, built in an early day.

The man with a big stick and the man with a big stomach are fighting it out in Ohio this week, with but little regard to Queensbury rules. The President claims that the Colonel hits below the belt, while the Colonel is so confident that the people can't get along without him that any sort of a drubbing does not disturb him. In the meantime the country is getting a lot of free advertising of a kind which adds nothing to the dignity of the republic.

The House, by a large majority, has passed a bill providing for the election of United States senators by popular vote, and when the senate concurs, as it doubtless will, the much discussed law will be in force. Many states, including Wisconsin, have already adopted it, and the change will not be radical. The future will determine whether the framers of the constitution made a mistake.

The city council will be endorsed in efforts being made to all the streets. The careless use of water has done more to ruin good streets than all other causes combined. If all the macadam streets were filled at public expense, no injustice would be done, and there would be no cause for complaint. The city excels in good sidewalks, and the next thing in order is good streets.

The fact that the State Tax Commission is just now sending out five thousand pamphlets of instruction on the much abused and discussed income tax indicates that but few of the blanks were filled out and returned April 1st, as ordered. The income tax is fearfully and wonderfully made, and the man who discovered it are not right certain concerning some of its provisions.

The pension bill, passed by both houses of congress, is now in the hands of the president and will become a law when signed. It adds some $30,000,000 to the pension fund, and gives to every old soldier a dollar a day. While the ranks of the Grand Army are rapidly being depleted, the nation is paying more for pensions today than at any time since the war.

The state university has not yet discovered that the people are dissatisfied with existing conditions, and nothing short of a political cyclone will wake up the management. The storm is brewing, however, and when it cuts loose there will be something doing.

Sears, Roebuck and company, of mail order fame, propose to spend a million dollars in advertising through a philanthropic scheme along the line of educating the farmer. "This is the only way they can get before the people, through the press of the country.

There is no age limit on the farm, and while a man may be at his best in the prime of life, he never gets too old to be out of a job with a comfortable home and an income.

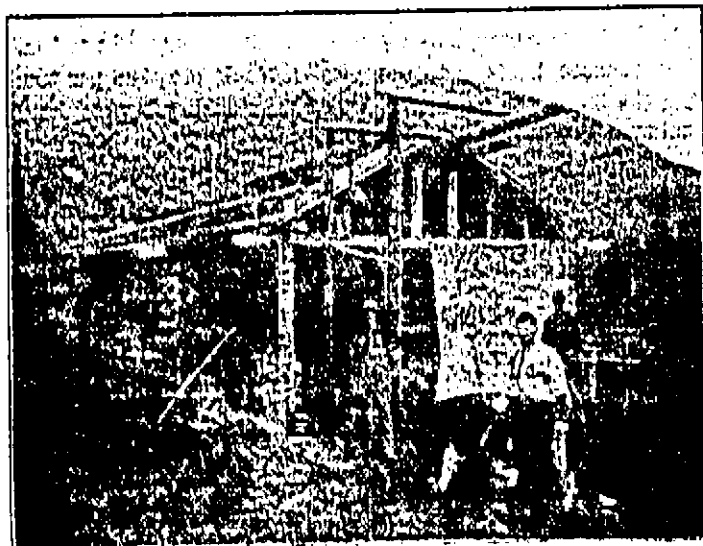

tain pens manufactured by them for a nugget of gold from the gold fields of Alaska. Some time ago George S. Parker, president of the company, received a letter from a man in Alaska, the writer stating that he desired one of the Parker pens. The man said that he had no money to pay for the pen, but that if Mr. Parker would send the pen, he, the prospector, would send back a gold nugget to pay for it, when it was received. The pen was sent to the man, and a few days ago a nugget, valued at $100, was received in payment for the pen. With the gold came a letter and a post card picture of the prospector's camp, two hundred and fifty miles into the interior of Alaska. It was stated in the letter that the man had just sent down to Seattle, five thousand dollars worth of nuggets, but lacking the real money, was forced to pay for his purchases with the nuggets.

HOME WEDDING HELD AT HIGH NOON TODAY

Edith Loomis Guy United in Marriage to Alva F. Traver at Residence of Her Parents.

At high noon today, at the residence of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Loomis, Edith Loomis Guy was united in marriage to Alva F. Traver of Denver, Colorado, by Reverend T. D. Williams of the Central Methodist church. The ceremony was most simple, the handsome home being tastefully decorated for the event by Amorphol, with palms, ferns and cut flowers, only immediate relatives of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends being present. Just preceding the ceremony itself, Miss Josephine Traver of Chicago, sang three selections, "The Proposal," "The Wedding March," and "The Wedding Song." Her sister Miss Mae Traver, playing the accompaniment. At the conclusion of the three songs, the bride couple took their places in the alcove of the parlor where Reverend Williams read the vows which united them in the bonds of matrimony. Justice W. Barlow of New York, acted as best man and Miss Josephine Traver as maid of honor. Following the ceremony Miss Mae Traver played a beautiful selection known as the Norwegian Wedding music. The wedding luncheon was served by Miss Margaret Thourer and Miss Traver. Mrs. Hattie Quirk acted as escort. The bride couple sat at a table handsomely decorated with huge baskets of roses and sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Traver left at five this afternoon for Chicago and will visit at the groom's old home in Jackson, Michigan, and other Michigan cities, before returning to Denver, where Mr. Traver is general manager of the Denver Gas, Electric and Heating Company, where they will make their home. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Traver, Jackson, Michigan, parents of the groom; Mrs. Harry Matthews, Winona, Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith, Mrs. O. E. Enger, Miss Gertrude Enger of Evanville, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bilba and family and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Noyes. Mrs. T. D. A. F. Lee Is First Janesville Man to Take Advantage of New Pension Measure.

Application for the first $30 a month pension by a Janesville veteran of the civil war was made today when A. F. Lee had the necessary papers filed out by Clerk of the Circuit Court James Earle. The application was made in accordance with the measure passed by congress and signed by President Taft within the last few days.

According to the terms of the measure the entire pension schedule is revised which will result in new applications being filed by practically all the veterans of the civil war. The papers may be filed out in the presence of any notary public.

"For Marrying Us."

Eight-year-old Robert, who has always imagined himself a very vital part of the family, was eagerly reading the "Beauty and Social Etiquette" page of a newspaper, when he came across the question of what should be a proper fee to pay the minister for performing a marriage ceremony. Robert hurriedly turned to his father, inquiring, "Papa, what did you pay the minister for marrying us?"—Indianapolis News.

Escapes an Awful Fate.

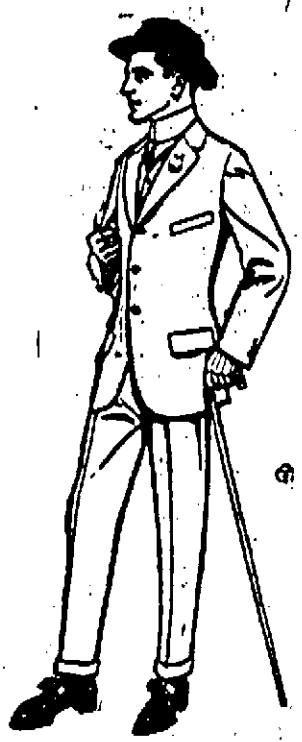

A thousand tongues could not express the gratitude of Mrs. J. E. Cox, of Joliet, Ill., for her wonderful deliverance from an awful fate. "Typhoid pneumonia had left me with a dreadful cough," she writes. "Sometimes I had such awful coughing spells I thought I would die. I could get no help from doctor's treatment or other medicines till I used Dr. King's New Discovery. But I owe my life to this wonderful remedy for I scarcely cough at all now." Quick and sure is the most reliable of all throat and lung medicines. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at People's Drug Co.

More About Our Ads:

A prominent publisher once said that a book would need no preface if the title was sufficiently suggestive of its contents. The same may be applied to an advertisement. It requires no long drawn out introduction if back of it there is merit certain and positive. Back of all the announcements that emanate from The Big Store is just that kind of merit. The merchandise they tell of is new, worthful and superlatively good.

ENGINEERS CANNOT GET TIME CHECKS

New Ruling by Master Mechanic Hall
Does Away With Time Checks
And Orders for Pay Checks.

Engineers on the Wisconsin division were much interested in the letter from Master Mechanic E. H. Hall in which he states that no time checks or orders for pay checks will be issued to engineers unless they are leaving the service. This order is the result of the practice of engineers who not short of money before payday, of requesting their time checks or orders for pay checks each month before the regular pay day was due, and to stop this the company will issue no time checks or orders unless a man is leaving the service of the Northwestern for good. Mr. Hall therefore warns the engineers to make their business arrangements before hand so that they will not need the money before the day when their money is due. The letter did not mention any other division in connection with this matter and spoke only of the Wisconsin division where it had been practiced.

POSITIONS BULLETINED AT ROUND HOUSE TODAY

Among the assignments of engineers posted this morning at the roundhouse is that of Engineer D. Montgomery and Fireman A. A. Reiner to the second dispatcher's job now at South Randolph. Fireman R. N. Noman and W. D. Hark have been assigned to the day dispatcher's job at Butler, and J. B. Noman, E. E. Voss and S. Whyte have received the night dispatcher's job at Butler. William H. Guild is the engineer of suburban run No. 1, Engineer E. P. Hayward of suburban run No. 14, Engineer M. Lawson of suburban run No. 20, Engineer A. Grebe of suburban run No. 35, and Engineer E. W. Russell of suburban run No. 41. Trains 946 and 949, running between Milwaukee and Delvidere, has been assigned to Engineer W. F. Schuster, and the special delivery at Butler will have L. H. Doyle as engineer.

The transfer of D. L. Montgomery leaves a vacancy for an engineer on the material train at Clymen Junction. There is a vacancy for one fireman on the Janesville to Delvidere turn-around with Engineer Artye. Suburban runs Nos. 2, 18 and 33 are open to application by engineers and the 5:00 a. m. work train at 40th avenue is also without an engineer. Engineers are wanted on the 1:30 p. m. local train with engine 936 out of 40th avenue, and the Harvard work train.

Engineer James Walsh is laying off from runs 544 and 521 on account of an injury to his hand.

The concrete foundations for the new black system signals have been placed for several days along the tracks in the city, and the work of erecting the towers will begin soon in all probability.

The beautiful little white gopher which some of the car department men caught the other day, died this morning from painters' colic or lead poisoning, the attending nurses did not know which, owing to the coat of white lead with which it was decorated. The farmers in the vicinity of South Janesville are keeping their horses shut up those days for fear that they will wake up some morning and find them turned into zebras.

MORMON PLURAL WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE

Case Called for Trial Today in Circuit Court at Salt Lake City Will Establish Precedent.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Salt Lake City, Utah, May 15.—The proceedings in the divorce suit brought by Charles R. Marsh against George J. Marsh, which was called for trial in the district court here today, will be followed with much interest, as the case is intended as a test of the legal status of a Mormon plural wife. Marsh, who is 82 years old, took a first wife in 1854, and this couple had 10 children. In 1888 he married the complainant under the ruse of the Mormon faith, the "celestial" marriage ceremony being performed in the temple at Logan. Six children were born to this couple. Troubles came in after years and the second wife finally determined that it was necessary to establish her status and that of her children. On the advice of counsel she brought suit for divorce. Marsh has set up the defense that she is not his legal wife. The status of thousands of other plural wives and their children is involved in the decision of this case.

May 15, 1912.—The barometric depression that appeared yesterday over the Red River valley has continued moving southward, and is now in the upper Mississippi valley. It has been attended by light rains in the upper Lake Region upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

Unsettled weather prevails in the east and south. There have been showers on the middle Atlantic coast, and showers and thunderstorms in the south. The atmospheric pressure is high throughout the west. It is cloudy and warm in the north Pacific states, but clear and frosty in the southwest.

Temperatures below freezing were reached this morning in southwestern Colorado, and southern Utah. In this vicinity the weather will continue cloudy and unsettled, probably with showers this afternoon. It will clear tonight, or Thursday morning when frost will occur in low places.

The Peck-Williamson Underfeed Warm Air Furnaces

Adapted for all buildings—large or small, residences, stores, apartments, churches, schools or halls—the Underfeed will add to the renting or selling value of any building. H. T. Hammond, Mingo Junction, O. writes:—"The wind hits my house all around. My slack bill to heat six rooms, two good sized halls and bath last winter was $14.80. Had no black smoke or dirt. Anyone can save fuel, time, labor and money by buying the Underfeed."

In the Underfeed, coal is fed from below. All fire is on top. Smoke and gases, wasted in other heaters, must, in the Underfeed, pass through the fire, are consumed and make more heat. Cheapest slack pea and buckwheat sizes of hard and soft coal, which would smother fire in other heaters, yield in the Underfeed as much clean, even heat as highest priced coal. The few ashes are removed by shaking the grate bar as in ordinary furnaces and boilers.

Triumph of the Underfeed
Cheapest Heat
in China as well as in America

Write for FREE Underfeed Catalog

Clean, even heat at least cost is insured everywhere by the Underfeed System. With all heating systems of the world in competition, the Underfeed was selected by President Seymour to heat four buildings of the Presbyterian Mission College at T'eng Chou Fu, North China. Knowing the matchless economy of Underfeed maintenance after a trial of two years in a Mission School in Korea, Dr. Seymour delegated L. H. Severance, of Cleveland, O., to place the big order for North China. Here, cost of high grade coal is almost prohibitive, while poor grades, which burn just as perfectly in the Underfeed and yield as much heat as high grade coal, are cheaply obtained. Because of its ability to perfectly consume cheapest grades of coal, the Underfeed soon pays for itself. No matter where you live, you can cut your coal bills one-half to two-thirds by installing THE UNDERFEED FURNACE.

They Want The Earth

From every point of the compass the Mail Order Octopus is reaching its myriad hands to grasp and grab the retail business of the towns scattered through the country—Janesville is no exception. Nothing that is grabble and gobbeable escapes the Mail Order clutch unless the people stand together against the Octopus.

The Mail Order people want the earth, and unless you refuse to trade with them and systematically patronize your home merchants and manufacturers they will get your part of the earth and you will have to get off.

A Word To The Wise Is A Whole Language.

When You Buy Lumber, Millwork, Etc.
Make Your Dollars Work Overtime

The man who can make his dollar do the work of a dollar and five cents is doing what the average capitalist does with his fortune, but the man who makes his dollar earn ONE DOLLAR AND TWENTY CENTS is taking advantage of opportunity.

Such a man is a benefit to any community in which he may live. He is thrifty, prudent, saving and economical—the very salt of the earth and every business man wants his patronage.

The man who buys lumber finds looming up big before him, the question of PRICE. It means perhaps the spending of a considerable sum and here is an opportunity to work his dollar overtime if he will use his brain.

Allow us to show just how much we can save you over and above Mail Order House Prices, how your money spent with us becomes an investment, how you get just exactly what you spend your money for and not cheap, shoddy material. Come in and see us.

How Two Girls Sought a Position

With a card in one hand, evidently from a business school, she entered the office of a business firm; but no one, apparently being about, she sat down on a chair. She was a dreamy-looking, timid girl, with big brown eyes, hair parted, Madonna-wise, over a low forehead, and a sensitive mouth. "Voices could be heard in an inner office, but no one appeared to inquire what she wanted."

After ten minutes or so had passed, another girl, also with a card evidently of a business school, entered. She looked about, but no one seemed to be in charge of the office, she also sat down. She was a vivid contrast to the first. Her manner was alert, quick, not unpleasantly aggressive but self-reliant. Her features were strong, her eyes a bright blue, her complexion a healthy red and white.

Five minutes slipped by. The dreamy-eyed girl sat lost in abstraction. The others eye roamed over the place taking in all its details. At last, she asked the first, "Isn't there anybody around?"

"I don't know," replied the first, and once more relapsed into her day-dreaming.

The other waited a few minutes more. Then she rose energetically.

"I'm going to find out," she said, and walked toward the inner office where voices could be heard.

Her manner was in nowise offensive. It was gracious, and when she made her inquiry of those in the room who stopped talking when she appeared, her tone was perfectly courteous. But she simply wasn't going to waste time sitting there doing nothing. The other probably would have sat there until the crack of dawn, unless some one had appeared to attend to her wants.

One girl was probably in no way superior to the other. But one was fitted for the business world, and one wasn't.

The dreamy, sensitive girl should have been working in the home, or with children, or doing beautiful needlework, or laboring in some artistic field, where she either worked individually or with congenial spirits. Her nerves and her body will be worn to riddle-strings in the frantic rush and scramble of the business world.

The other had just the alertness, initiative, poise, self-reliance that the business world needs. She could hold her own. She wouldn't be trampled on. She could keep her nerves steady and go right on typing in the din of a stock-exchange fray.

Yet fate or circumstances had sent them both seeking the same kind of work. And if the timid, retiring, unassertive girl doesn't get that job, probably in time she will get another like it, and in the course of a few years, and a physical and nervous wreck.

She may not have given much thought as to whether she is fitted for the work she is trying to do. Or she may be compelled to take whatever she can get. But how much better off she would be, if she would give thought to the work she chooses for earning her living, and would select that for which she is temperamentally fitted.

And if she and other girls like her discover that they have made a mistake in the choice of their occupation, they need not despair. One is never too old to study, and opportunities for self-improvement are on all sides. One can plan, and save and work toward the new condition she wants, and such an ambition puts new joy into life.

BY DOROTHY DALL

"All men lie to women," is one of Eugene Walter's pet statements. And now Mrs. Michaelis, the author, is quoted as saying that all women are natural born liars. "Women have learned prevarication from their mothers, and they in turn from their mothers," is the way she puts it. It only remains now for some prominent person to come forward with the assertion that truth is a myth, anyway as far as women are concerned.

No doubt Mrs. Michaelis based her sweeping statement on some such custom of women as that of using the unbecomingly phrase, "not at home" when they do not wish to see callers.

Let's take a look at that terrible "not-at-home" lie.

Granted, men don't use anything like it to each other. Why not? Because they are all protected by a private office.

If the man who has a private office of his own doesn't wish to see a caller he sends out word that he's too busy, or plainly that he doesn't want to. And every other man in his employ does likewise, because the rules from the employer's private office do not allow of his being interrupted. That's business etiquette.

Now suppose the wife of one man calls on the wife of another, and she sends down word that she's too busy or doesn't want to come down. Who'd be the first person to call her a snob and think she'd snubbed his wife but the rebuffed lady's husband?

Why? Because "not at home" is some etiquette for good and sufficient reason. The home may be the busiest place on earth, but it is also a reception place as well. Its mistress may have fourteen different jobs, as cook, janitor, seamstress, etc., but she's a reception committee just the same, who must always smile and say "Welcome," unless she takes re-

DINNER STORIES

Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, the new chancellor of New York University, was talking about his desire for a larger and deeper study of the arts in American colleges.

"In youth," said Dr. Brown, "the taste is formed, and it will be a taste for fine and beautiful things or else it will be a taste of tawdry and false things. Without great care it will be a taste of the latter sort. Let us be warned by the anecdote of the little Klinton boy:

"This little boy was taken one summer to the circus for the first time."

"Well, dear, how did you like it?" his mother asked on his return.

"His eyes widened and he answered with earnest and grave enthusiasm:

"Mamma, if you once want to the circus you'd never, never consent to go to church again in your life!"

A Washington politician not long since attended a banquet given by physicians in connection with a medical conference.

This banquet was a jolly affair. Many toasts were drunk. One proposed the health of "The Ladies."

another of "The President," and so on through a long list.

Finally, when the glasses had been filled and emptied a number of times the toastmaster glanced at the politician. "Our genial friend," he said, "has not yet been heard from. Mr. Blank will now propose a toast."

Whereupon the politician arose and smiled at the doctors assembled around him. "I propose," he said, "the health of the sick."

Senator John Sharp Williams tells of an aged negro preacher in Mississippi who was asked what he thought of his two sons, both preachers, too.

"Well, sah," replied the old man, "George has a better show in his shop window than John; but den John he's got a larger stock in his warehouse."

A prisoner was being tried in an English court for murder; evidence against him was purely circumstantial; part of it a but found near the scene of the crime—an ordinary, round, black hat, but sworn to as the prisoner's. Counsel for the defense, of course, made much of the commonness of the hat. "You, gentlemen, no doubt each of you possess such a hat, of the most ordinary make and shape. Beware how you condemn a fellow-creature to a shameful death on such a piece of evidence," and so on. So the man was acquitted. Just as he was leaving the dock, with the most touching humility and simplicity, he said, "If you please, my lord, may I have my hat?"

Mr. Choate's talent for multiplying words which might not signify a great deal, but which not only sounded well but helped to create with a jury the impression that he sought to convey, is well known. On one occasion, in defending an insurance company against which a claim had been brought for the loss of a ship which was declared by the defense to be utterly unworthy, Mr. Choate made a great impression by including in his plea these swelling words:

"And, so, gentlemen, overburdened with her well-nigh priceless cargo, and carrying her far more precious freight—of human life, the vessel started on her voyage, painted in perfidious—a coffin, but no ship!"

The great difficulty is always to open people's eyes, to touch their feelings and break their hearts to ease the difficult thing is to break their heads.

USES FOR SOUR CREAM.

Sour cream is such a valuable aid in cooking that not a tablespoonful of it should ever be wasted.

To each cup of thick sour cream, beat in a half teaspoonful of soda, then use with a scant amount of baking powder. With cream very little shortening need be used, one to three tablespoonfuls, according to the richness of the cream.

Drop Cookies.—Use half a cup of butter, one cup of sugar, one egg beaten light, half a cup of sour cream, one-fourth of a teaspoon of soda, two and a half cups of flour and three and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix in the usual manner and drop from a spoon upon buttered tins, shaping each portion into a smooth round. Dredge with granulated sugar and bake in a moderate oven. Half a cup of coconut may be added before the flour and the quantity of flour reduced a little.

Sour cream used in a white sauce served with codfish is a new dish to many, but once tried it will often be repeated.

It often happens in warm weather, with even a limited supply, that some of the milk will get sour before it can be used. If a quart or more is on hand some of the delicious cottage cheese may be prepared. Set the thickened milk on the back part of the stove, and when a curd is formed, drain off the whey and season with salt, butter and a little thick sour cream.

Sour Cream Filling for Cake.—Sweeten and chill a cup of sour cream. Whip it, keeping it cold while doing so, and when stiff fold in a cup of nuts; hickory are best. This is excellent for layer cakes.

Raisins added to the above filling makes a variety. Lemon juice and powdered sugar may be added with the raisins.

Graham Bread.—Stiff together one cup of graham and one cup of wheat flour; add a teaspoonful of soda, a half teaspoonful of baking powder, a cup of sour milk, a half cup of molasses, a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt; combine the ingredients and bake in a bread pan one and one-half hours.

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

LOVE THAT'S KIN TO HATE.

"So each man kills the thing he loves, by each let this be heard!" —Oscar Wilde.

LOVE is the most beautiful thing in the world; hate is the ugliest thing; the two are commonly supposed to be opposite poles. And yet how often love is just as cruel and just as much a happiness destroyer as hate!

There is a woman in this town who loves her son very dearly—so dearly in fact that she is doing her best to spoil his home. Her son is married to a good woman whom he loves and who loves him; he has a comfortable income; he has children; he and his enjoy good health. There is no reason why his home should not be a model of harmony and happiness, except that his mother loves him with this love that is more cruel than hate. She is a widow and has lived with him since his marriage. His wife has always tried to make her comfortable and happy, but she refuses to be either, and everything that the wife does she misconstrues and often misrepresents to her son. Fortunately he is a man with a strong sense of justice and infinite tact, and while he treats his mother with the utmost love and kindness, he refuses to let her spoil his love for his wife.

I am not forgetting that there are two sides to everything. But this is the description of a woman who has lived in the home for some years and who went there prejudiced in the mother's favor.

Again, a certain young man is in love with a sweet and desirable girl. His mother said he was too young to marry, and by clever intrigues actually succeeded in estranging him from the girl. Since then the girl has married another man, and the son, who never found any other woman he cared for, has become a "man about town." In the worst sense of that phrase, I think his mother would give her life now to see him marry a good woman and settle down, but he does not wish to marry, and he is certainly not fit for any good woman. And his mother is to blame.

To be sure both these experiences are exaggerated cases of the cruelty of love, but I know of many homes where this jealousy, although less acute and ruthless, still spoils infinite happiness every day.

Of course there are a great many sweethearts and wives who are selfish in their claims on their lovers and husbands. I am not condemning their faults, but we all know that sex love is inclined to be selfish and exacting. Whereas mother love is universally supposed to be the most unselfish love in the world, it is not more so, and terrible then when we find even this holy affection tainted by selfishness and jealousy!

Besides, the mother must have known what it is to be a wife. The young wife does not know what it means to be the mother of a man. The younger woman is almost always condemned most harshly in such cases. It seems to me that the older woman who has lived long enough to have greater sympathy and understanding, and who has a more selfless affection to live up to, is faithless to a greater trust.

Once in a while I am obliged to disappoint some of my younger correspondents, who write to me in the hope of seeing their communications published and answered. This is not due to any disregard of my young friends' feelings. Allow me to explain that this column is intended for the publication of such letters and answers as may be considered of general interest. Anyone, whether man or woman, boy or girl, who writes to me in sincerity to obtain help over some problem that is worth while, may expect from me the best I can do. Opinions of handwriting, or information as to the value of coins, or as to the day on which a given date fell, or definitions of proper names, are of no general interest, and hence I am obliged, regretfully, to put aside one of the letters requesting such information.

Do not hesitate to come to me with any real problem. I am glad to answer in good faith, and to hold in confidence the identity of writers. But don't ask me to answer questions of no general interest.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I want to tell the readers of your column not to place their trust in palmists or clairvoyants. The other day I went to a palmist, who began by asking me to take off my two rings, one of which was a wedding ring. Then she told me that I would be married inside of nine months to a tall, handsome, dark man. Isn't that proof enough that she was a fake?

You certainly have reasons on which to base your conviction. Allow me to say here that letters of this kind, which ask no questions, but which are interesting in themselves, are always welcome.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you kindly tell the correct pronunciation of the word Navajo? T. C.

As though it were spelled Navaho, with the accent on the first syllable, and with the long sound of o.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My wife is an orphan. She has an elderly cousin who assumes to advise me on all matters. I have a right to object to this? The plan does not please me at all.

JOHN.

Certainly you have a right to object, but be careful to do so diplomatically. There are two people and only two who have a right to a voice in your home management, your wife and yourself. Fortunately the idea that mother-in-laws as a rule are troublesome in coming to be regarded as a mythical one. A cousin certainly has no excuse to meddle.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a high school girl, and expect to graduate in June. My folks are poor, and while they are going to let me have a new dress, I am afraid it will not be as nice as some that the other girls will have and I feel badly to think that I will not look as well as some of the rest. Can you help me?

It is easy to tell a young girl not to worry about such things, but one who has known the pangs of the hurt pride of girlhood knows how hard it is to accept such counsel. I am glad to say, Mildred, that it is coming to be regarded as good taste to avoid display in graduation gowns. Girls in simple gowns may take pride in their good sense.

Directions for making fancy puddings, elaborate gelatin mixtures of all kinds, custards, mousses, but recipes suited for every day dining are less often met with. The following one was known years ago as "cabinet pudding." We know it best as "steamed fruit pudding." Cream one-half cup of butter with a cup of sugar; add the beaten yolks of four eggs, then a half a cup of milk and two heaping cups of sifted flour containing two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat thoroughly and add the fruit, one-half pound of seeded raisins, one-fourth pound of currants, one-half cup of minced citron and candied ginger mixed, a little candied lemon peel grated. Season with lemon extract. Pour the mixture into a buttered mould, filling each mould about two-thirds full, steam two hours and serve hot with a sauce made with one tablespoonful of butter rubbed into one cup of powdered sugar; add the whites of the eggs left from the pudding beaten very light, and a cup of fresh juice. Set in a sauce pan of boiling water and stir until it is hot, but do not let it boil.

A very simple pudding that may be mixed and baked in less than a half an hour is "milk pudding." One cup of milk, one tablespoonful of butter, one egg, one generous pinch of salt, beat the butter and sugar to a soft cream, beat in the egg and whip up very light. Then mix with milk, and beat the flour. Bake in a buttered mould until a straw thrust into the thickest part comes out clean. Turn out upon a plate. Cut in slices and eat hot with cream sauce.

Cream Sauce.—Two cups rich milk, half cream if you can get it. Four tablespoonfuls of sugar, whites of two eggs whipped stiff, one teaspoonful extract of bitter almonds, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one even teaspoonful of cornstarch wet up with cold water. Heat the milk to scalding, add the sugar, stir in the cornstarch. When it thickens beat in the stiffened whites, then the seasoning. Take from the fire and set in boiling water to keep warm, but not cook until wanted.

When the best ingredients are used with careful measurements and good judgment, satisfactory results are sure to follow all attempts at custard making.

Quaking Custard.—One quart of milk, five eggs, one cup of sugar, four heaping tablespoonfuls of grated chocolate, two teaspoonfuls vanilla extract. Scald the milk, rub the chocolate to a smooth paste in a little cold milk. Stir into the milk and cook two minutes in it. Beat up the yolks of five eggs with the whites of two and the sugar. Pour the hot mixture gradually upon them, stirring deeply. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and set in a dripping pan of boiling water. Bake until firm. When "set" in the middle spread quickly without taking from the oven, with a meringue made by whipping three reserved whites stiff with a very little sugar. Bake until this is done. Eat cold.

Baked Cup Custard.—One quart of milk, yolks of five eggs and whites of three (reserving two for the meringue). Six tablespoonfuls of sugar, vanilla flavoring, one teaspoonful to the pint. Heat the milk almost to boiling. Beat the yolks and add slowly to the heated yolks and sugar, whipped up with three of the whites. Return to the fire and stir until it begins to thicken, but not until it curdles. Pour into a bowl, and when cold flavor. Fill glass or china cups with it. Whip the reserved whites to a meringue with a little powdered sugar and heap a spoonful upon the top of each cup.

Baking Powder Biscuits
Light as a Feather.
By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Baking Powder Biscuits made by this recipe are so far ahead of ordinary baking powder biscuits that, if once tried, you will never use any other recipe. Try it the next time you run short of bread. Save this recipe.

K C Baking Powder Biscuits

Three cups flour; 1 to 1 1/2 cup shortening; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; about 1 cup milk or water; 1 teaspoonful salt.

Sift three times, the flour, salt and baking powder. Work into the flour the shortening, using lard or butter for shortening. Then mix to a very soft dough with the milk. The softer the dough enters the oven, the lighter it comes out. Never knead baking powder biscuits; press the dough into shape and roll lightly. Cut in small shapes and bake on a sheet or very shallow pan in a hot oven. In placing biscuits in the pan place well apart, not allowing edges to touch. Small biscuits are better than large ones. Large biscuits do not have the proper amount of time to raise and bake.

Have you seen the new K C Cook's Book? It is full of appetizing recipes that simply must be successful every time if the few simple directions are carefully followed. You would surely pay 50 cents for this valuable book, yet we send it absolutely free upon receipt of the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent tin of K C Baking Powder. Address: J. C. Condit, Chicago. Small cuts do not have Cook's Book certificate.

You Can Own Your Home Easily

Times have changed since that father of yours bought the home in which you were reared.

He paid practically all the purchase price down and worked like a slave to pay off the mortgage.

Today the man with a few hundred dollars can buy a home and pay the balance in easy installments like rent.

Safe to say that three-quarters of the homes in Janesville are mortgaged, for when they are bought on the installment plan and something over half paid for, the owners see the wisdom of making a straight loan on the unpaid balance, treating the interest as rent and investing what they would otherwise pay upon their homes in vacant lots or improved property which will net them snug returns.

Every night there are great opportunities for home owning and real estate investments in the Gazette want ads.

Physicians Have Great Success With Tonic in This Country.

When people of wealth become debilitated and run down in health they go to high priced sanitariums and health resorts to be built up again. But what about the thousands of debilitated nervous men and women with no vitality or ambition who neither have the time nor money to spare for such luxuries as sanitariums? If you are in this miserable condition read with care the following statement by M. F. Mann, living at 53 Good Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have had indigestion and been all run down for ten years. I couldn't eat anything at times and was always constipated. My nerves were out of order and I had bad headaches. I believed I had kidney trouble, too, as I had dull pains in my back much of the time. I was easily excited and often when I couldn't eat and had a nervous attack I would suffer severe dizzy spells.

"I heard so much about the new tonic, 'Tona Vita' that I decided to give it a trial and I feel like a different man. I am strong in every way; I sleep well, can eat anything and my nerves are as steady as can be. I have gained four pounds in the last ten days. I believe 'Tona Vita' is the best medicine on earth."

"Tona Vita was introduced in this country by a number of physicians scarcely a year ago. The tonic has proved the biggest success of any medicine ever before sold to the public.

If you are debilitated and run down don't allow this miserable condition to last a day longer. Let Tona Vita build you up and bring back your health. If it fails your money will be returned by our agent in your city. Smith Drug Co., is the agent for Tona Vita in Janesville. The Approved Formula Company, Dayton, Ohio.

Cook All Meats In Union Cookery Bags

—save 20% to 50% of cost

We are not living too well—but we are living too expensively. You want only the best of everything on your table. And that is right. But the wise and skillful housewife is the one who serves the best of food without paying extravagant prices for it.

Take meat—a roast, for instance. It is a positive fact that from 15 to 20%—the best tasting and nutritious part—is lost in the common way of roasting. The whole kitchen is filled with the savory odor of the cooking meat. How much better that roast would taste if all this savoriness were retained within the meat itself. And this can be done. Don't use any pan at all. Prepare the roast in your usual way—then put it into a Union Cookery Bag without any liquid. Full directions about adding water and sealing the bag with wire clips or pins, are given to you in a Free Book.

When the roast is done and you open the bag, everything that went into the bag will still be there. Not a whiff of flavor nor a crumb of the delicious juices lost! The roast will be beautifully browned—and when you cut into it, you will say you have never seen such roast beef before. Cook all meats in Union Cookery Bags—roasts, steaks, cutlets, veal, mutton, turkey, chicken, game, etc.

You can buy the less expensive cuts of meat—the shoulder, for instance, instead of 2½ tenderloin—and by cooking them in Union Cookery Bags you make these wholesome, cheaper cuts as tender and deliciously good as the most costly cuts. Your meat dealer will tell you that by his lower priced, nutritious meat is using the best of good judgment. Do this for one month—cooking in Union Cookery Bags—and the saving will surprise you.

FEW BENEFITED BY DOLLAR A DAY ACT

Age of 75 Years and Two Years' Service Required by Veterans to Get $30 per Month.

There are few veterans of the Civil War in Rock county or in the entire country who will be benefited by the $1-a-day act, according to the terms of the bill. In fact but 16,329 are entitled to $30 a month. The reason for this is that only veterans who are more than 75 years of age and served in the war more than two years are entitled to a pension of $30 a month. Section 1 of the bill agreed upon provides rates as follows, according to the Congressional Record:

That any person who served ninety days or more in the military or naval service of the United States during the late Civil war, who has been honorably discharged therefrom, and who has reached the age of 62 years or over shall, upon making proof of such facts according to such rules and regulations as the secretary of the interior may provide, be entitled to receive a pension as follows: In case such person has reached the age of 62 years and served ninety days, $12 per month; six months, $13.50 per month; one year, $14 per month; one and one-half years, $14.50 per month; two years, $15 per month; two and one-half years, $15.50 per month; three years or over, $16 per month. In case such person has reached the age of 64 years and served ninety days, $15 per month; six months, $15.50 per month; one year, $16 per month; one and one-half years, $16.50 per month; two years, $17 per month; two and one-half years, $17.50 per month; three years or over, $18 per month. In case such person has reached the age of 70 years and served ninety days, $18 per month; six months, $19 per month; one year, $20 per month; one and one-half years, $21.50 per month; two years, $22 per month; two and one-half years, $23 per month; three years or over, $25 per month. In case such person has reached the age of 75 years and served ninety days $21 per month; six months $22.50 per month; one year $24 per month; one and one-half years, $25 per month; two years or over $30 per month. That any person who served in the military or naval service of the United States during the Civil war and received an honorable discharge, and who was wounded in battle or by manual labor by reason thereof, or who from disease or other causes incurred in line of duty resulting in his disability, was unable to perform manual labor, shall be paid the maximum pension under this act to wit, $30 per month without regard to length of service or age.

An increase was made in the pension rate for all classes of pensioners more than sixty-two years of age. There are 429,965 pensioners provided for at a total increase a year of $25,707,502.

PRESBYTERIAN CHOIR IN "QUEEN ESTHER"

Stirring Scenes of Bible Story Pleasingly Portrayed in Cantata Last Night.

Members of the Presbyterian choir in their presentation of the cantata, "Queen Esther" at the Presbyterian church last evening, sang their parts in a most pleasing and creditable manner. Under the direction of Prof. J. S. Taylor the principals had learned to sing their parts with true dramatic emotion and to Mrs. Janet H. Day is due the credit for the successful acting and the excellent staging and costuming.

Miss Margaret McCulloch in the role of Esther the Queen was one of the stars of the cast. Her pleadings in behalf of Mordecai and her people the Jews to her husband, King Ahasuerus of Babylon, were sung with dramatic emotion which gave an unusual opportunity for her clear soprano voice.

Arthur Stuart as Mordecai, leader of the Jews, was eloquent and forceful and his right tenor voice was at its best. Frank K. Donno presented the part of Ahasuerus the King in an impressive manner and Edwin Meade in the role of Haman, the King's savior, with considerable feeling. Miss Ada Lewis had the part of Zeresh, wife of Haman, and Miss Lillian Silverhill took the role of Mordecai's sister. The scene depicting Haman's final downfall after Queen Esther's intercession, with the King was portrayed with true dramatic appreciation.

Other parts in the cantata were taken by James Laughlin, Whitford Moten, Stanley Moten, Margaret Powers and Minnie Powers. The cantata will be presented again this evening for the benefit of those who were not present last night. The auditorium of the church was filled for the performance last night.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

(By Howard L. Hann.)

THE garden is a mellow plot of ground which produces with equal facility early vegetables, the double-flowered pansies and the semi-dwarfed legume. Gardening is a mild form of temporary insanity which takes hold of a man early in April and lets go with the debut of the radiant June sun.

Very few gardeners receive any attention after the mellow voice of the potato bug begins to mingle with the sweet song of the sweet pea. After a plain, unadorned garden, a man has sown a few seeds of grass and chives bugs out of his garden for two hours, under the benign influence of a sun that would search the hide of a hair trunk, he will be bent out of shape worse than the horse shoe falls and have to rise to his feet in a series of slowly ascending jerks.

The average garden is always disappointing the owner by doing something which was not in the original contract. If it is a wet spring, a man has to cultivate his green corn with a suction pump and a pair of hip boots and harvest the early radish from a raft. If it is a dry season, he is obliged to bathe the bulbous forehead of the young onion in city water, which is the most expensive form of irrigation known to man. The most deadly foe of the gardener, however, is the first frost, which ambles down from the frigid zone just in time to curdle the contents of the cantaloupe and lay the finger of death on the pea plant.

Another insidious enemy is the humble bee, which fills from flower to flower and fills the eyes of the carrot, beet and turnip with clay subsoil. After a gardener has run foul of a few of these obstructions, he is liable to let loose of considerable mental enthusiasm and some parts of speech which would not look well as an introduction to the Sabbath school lesson. The only kind of garden truck which a man is sure of realizing on the same season comes from the green grocer.

FROM THE EDITOR.

He Forgot That He Had a Stomach.

Talking of food, there is probably no professional man subjected to a greater, more wearing mental strain than the responsible editor of a modern newspaper.

To keep his mental faculties constantly in good working order, the editor must keep his physical powers up to the highest rate of efficiency. Nothing will so quickly upset the whole system as badly selected food and a disordered stomach. It therefore follows that he should have right food, which can be readily assimilated, and which furnishes true brain nourishment.

"My personal experience in the use of Grape-Nuts and Postum," writes a Philadelphia editor, "so exactly agrees with your advertised claim as to their merits, that your further exposition in that direction would seem to be superfluous. They have benefited me so much, however, during the five years that I have used them, that I do not feel justified in withholding my testimony."

"General 'high living' with all that the expression implies as to a generous table, brought about indigestion, in my case, with restlessness at night, and lassitude in the morning, accompanied by various pains and distressing sensations during working hours."

"The doctor diagnosed the condition as 'catarrh of the stomach,' and prescribed various medicines, which did me no good. I finally 'threw physics to the dogs,' gave up tea and coffee and heavy meat dishes, and adopted Grape-Nuts and Postum as the chief articles of my diet."

"I can conscientiously say, and I wish to say it with all the emphasis possible to the English language, that they have benefited me as medicines never did, and more than any other food that ever came on my table."

"My experience is that the Grape-Nuts food has steadied and strengthened both brain and nerves to a most positive degree. How it does it, I cannot say, but I know that after breakfasting on Grape-Nuts food one actually forgets he has a stomach, let alone 'stomach trouble.' It is, in my opinion, the most beneficial as well as the most economical food on the market, and has absolutely no rival." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and on molecular form, exactly as nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumin and water.

Grape-Nuts contains that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

Every day's use of brain wears away a little.

Suppose your kind of food does not contain Phosphate of Potash.

How are you going to rebuild today the worn-out parts of yesterday?

And if you don't, why shouldn't nervous prostration and brain-fog result.

Remember, Mind does not work well on a brain that is even partly broken down from lack of nourishment.

It is true that other food besides Grape-Nuts contains varying quantities of Brain Food.

Plain wheat and barley do. But in Grape-Nuts there is a certainty.

And if the elements demanded by Nature, are eaten, the life forces have the needed material to build from.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN Food Specialist

TOO MUCH PROTEID STRAINS KIDNEYS.

"The surplus of proteid food commonly consumed," says Prof. Chittenden in the Popular Science Monthly, "is wholly unphysiological and in the long run detrimental to the best interests of the individual."

If bread and other forms of the cereals are made the staple of the diet, and if two glasses of milk are taken daily the adult will obtain sufficient proteid without any eggs, cheese or meat at all. If these high proteid foods are added, a severe strain is imposed upon the kidneys which tends to rheumatism, Bright's disease and arterio-sclerosis. There seems to be a general agreement among authorities on diet that, as so often insisted upon in these hints, too much flesh-forming food is eaten, and especially too much meat, and ultimately good must result from gradually reducing the amount, as many readers have testified.

"IN A PERSIAN GARDEN."

Those who have had to be content with hearing the operatic gems from the most successful American and foreign operas from their Victorian records, are to have even a finer treat offered them when the Mendelssohn club of Rockford holds its May Operatic carnival, May 15, 16 and 17 evening and May 18 matinee, in its own building in Rockford. Over 200 men, women and children will appear in the galaxy of musical events. It is believed that nothing like it has ever been attempted in the west. The carnival will present almost everything worth while, vocally and histrionically, of the time. There will be big pretentious things like "In a Persian Garden" amid real oriental scenes and with all the costuming, colors and the inscrutable East. There will be a genuine minstrel show complete in itself, and numberless groups and choruses from the best operas by pretty girls.

As there will be a great rush for admissions the Rockford Mendelssohn club has arranged to have a limited number of tickets on sale in Janesville at W. T. Shorer's drug store without increased charge. These should be purchased at once as it may be necessary to recall unsold tickets at any time to prevent overcrowding the building.

This will be one of the most charming society and musical events which Rockford has ever known and the Mendelssohn club ladies will be greatly delighted to have their excellent programs enjoyed by music lovers in Janesville.

MONTE CARLO GIRLS.

The Monte Carlo Girls' big burlesque company, one of the best shows on the road will appear at the Myers theatre, Thursday evening. It is said to be the best show traveling through out the country, headed by Welsh & Florida, these two funny fellows who are everywhere and are always sure to give the lovers of burlesque a run for their money. Also La Neta, the original girl in red and Hopper and Rovent, with a barrel full of fun, club has arranged to have a limited

LITTLE GEORGIA MISS IS NAMED AND ADOPTED BY STATE OF HER NATIVITY

Mrs. George P. Brown and Baby Daughter, with Loving Cup.

The little baby daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George P. Brown, of Fulton county, Ga., has the distinction of having been named and formally adopted by the state of her nativity. A resolution naming the baby "Georgia" has been passed by both houses of the legislature and formally enrolled as an act of the state.

The father is a member of the Georgia lower house. His friends in this body have given into the hands of the mother in trust for the child a magnificent silver loving cup, almost as tall as the little lady in whose honor the gift was made.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LOVE'S COUNTERFEITS.

Another harebrained youth, smitten by a girl who rejects him, follows the girl, nags her, makes her life a torment, then kills her.

It is called a "love tragedy."

A weak souled woman whose vanity is played upon or whose trivial grievance is fostered by an affinity is persuaded to leave her husband and children and run away.

It is called a "love story."

Or a man of family deserts a good wife and children, leaving a heritage of shame, and goes pillaging with some foolish miss who has infatuated him.

He is "blinded by love."

To paraphrase the utterance of Mme. Roland, "O love, what crimes are committed in thy name." Many so called love affairs are libels on love.

Love is more than passion or desire. Love is, first of all, clean. And love will protect its own and not kill it. Love will die to save the loved one. Love puts above all else the happiness of the loved at the sacrifice of self. It is the divinest thing known to humans.

Love seeks not its own.

It flees nothing from honor.

It rejoices in purity.

It endures forever.

Love is more than sentimentality. Its language is not the speech of the silly, so called "love letters" read for the delectation of the multitude in the divorce courts.

The speech of genuine affection may sometimes be betrayed into the word of extravagance or impulsive expression, but it is never the language of insincerity. The stuff of which many love speeches are made is the vilest froth on the cup of affection.

Being divine, love abides.

Love must keep its own forever and a day. It is stronger and sweeter when the wrinkles mar the face of the loved one, when the hair is silvered and the frame is bent, than in the younger days of the cheeks' rounded contour and the body's stately carriage.

Love seeketh not its own. Unselfishness is its essence. Love sacrifices, dances itself. It is long suffering and kind.

Call you that love which deceives, which lures for its own desire, which brings dishonor, which turns its back upon those who should be dear, which brings humiliation and shame and remorse?

That sort comes up from the depths. True love comes down from above.

Real Victory.

A more glorious victory cannot be gained over another man than this: that when the injury begun on his part, the kindness should begin on ours.

Can You Blame Them?

One reason why men who have children don't try to tell us how to raise ours is that they wish to avoid being asked an embarrassing question.

NOTICE.

Bids for the work of building such cement bridges and culverts as are necessary during the current year, and which are under the jurisdiction of the Highway Commissioners of Rock County, will be opened at the office of the county clerk May 20, at 1:30 P. but when I want to use them they're always out of ink. And if some ink still lingers inside the blamed machine, it gets upon my fingers and stains me red or green. If I am in a hurry, it tends to make me nervous; there's nothing else can worry me like a fountain pen! I twist it and I shake it, and turn the thing around, and then get mad and break it and stamp it in the ground. A fountain pen would please me, and fill me with delight; of trouble it would ease me if it would only write. The fountain pen is handy for pushing corks, I think; is surely a dandy at splashing you with ink; it has a dozen features commending it to men, but no well-balanced creature would use it as a pen!

The True and the False.
True love is that which enables the personality, fortifies the heart and sanctifies the existence. And the being we love must not be mysterious and sphinxlike, but clear and limpid, as a diamond, so that admiration and attachment may grow with knowledge. —Amiel's Journal.

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher

The fountain pen is useful to all our human tribes; it's better than the successful quill used by ancient scribes. It's bought by Christmas shoppers to give to Uncle Heck, so he can push a stopper down in a bottle's neck. I've bought a dozen at Jimmison's notion store, and uncle, aunt and cousin gave me as many more; and if I do not love them, they are a boon, you'd think!

"And why did you name your son Peary?"
"Oh, he was hatched from a cold-storage egg."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, May 15, 1872.
—Momentary Excitement The little collision between a clothing merchant and a colored barber, near the post office this morning, created some excitement in that vicinity at the time of its occurrence. The clothing man attempted to enforce the payment of a small debt, but the barber objected so strongly to this summary procedure that by-standers had to interfere to prevent the darker from putting a paving stone through his Jewish antagonist. The barber was merely acting on the defensive, but he didn't have half a chance.
—Dangerous Experiment: E. F. Welch's three-year-old son attempted to take a drink from a bottle of sulphuric acid on Monday night, but fortunately did not succeed in swallowing any of the fiery poison. The inside of the little fellow's mouth and throat is badly cauterized, and his face and clothing show the effect of the acid. The sufferings are severe but no dangerous results are apprehended.

—Letter Day Salute: There will be a gathering of Letter Day Salute at All Saints' church in this city on Saturday and Sunday, the 18th and 19th, inst. Afternoon and evening sessions will be held. Joseph Smith (not the original father of the sect) of Plano, Ill., and other elders will preach.
—Brief Items.
Horses have been secured to draw the steamers in case of fire, and they will be kept in readiness day and night.
The Deloit nine will be here Sunday and the national game will be played at the fair grounds on that day (weather permitting) between that club and the Janesville nine. Several wagon loads of spectators will come from Deloit.

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO AID IN THE MATTER

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.
The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.
There are many number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.
Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.
But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.
The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.

PROLOGUE

It was in the woods that the girl of the Limberlost found her education, her love, her happiness and other good things, so, rightly, the air of the trees is in this story of her life. Here is a tale for lovers of the woods and for others who like a simple story well told by one who knows the forest, can tell about "home folks" and can find the interest in everyday lives. Through these pages flutter the brilliant butterfly of tangled romance, the more sober butterfly, no less beautiful, of noble, quiet lives, well lived, and the gray moth of sorrow borne needlessly for many years. And if you listen closely you may hear the buzz of the little, busy worker of knowledge.

CHAPTER I

Wherein Elmore Goes to High School. "LORENA COMSTOCK, have you lost your senses?" demanded the angry voice of Katharine Comstock as she glared at her daughter.

"Why, mother?" faltered the girl. "Don't you 'why mother' me?" cried Mrs. Comstock. "You know very well what I mean. You've given me no peace until you've had your way about this going to school business. I've fixed you good enough, and you're ready to start. But no child of mine walks the streets of Onondaga looking like a play actress woman. You wet your hair and comb it down modest and decent and then be off or you'll have no time to find where you belong."

Elmore gave one despairing glance at the white face, framed in a most becoming riot of reddish brown hair, which she saw in the little kitchen mirror. Then she untied the narrow black ribbon, wet the comb and plastered the waving curls close to her head, bound them fast, pinned on the skimpy black hat and started for the back door.

Mrs. Comstock watched the girl down the long walk to the gate and out of sight on the road in the bright sunshine of the first Monday of September.

"I bet a dollar she gets enough of it by night!" Mrs. Comstock said positively.

Elmore gave no heed to her mother's words. She was blind by instinct, for her eyes were blinded with tears. She left the road where it turned south at the corner of the Limberlost, climbed a maple fence and entered a path worn by her own feet. Dangling under willow and scrub oak branches, she sat just came to the faint outline of an old trail made in the days when the professor (timber of the swamp) was guarded by armed men. This path, she followed until she reached a thick clump of bushes. From the debris in the end of a hollow log she took a key that unlocked the padlock of a large weather-beaten old box, inside of which lay several books, a butterfly apparatus and an old cracked mirror. The walls were lined thickly with gaudy butterflies, dragon flies and moths. She put up the mirror, and, once more pulling the ribbon from her hair, she shook the bright mass over her shoulders, tossing it dry in the sunshine. Then she straightened it, bound it loosely and replaced her hat. She tugged vainly at the low brown calico collar and gazed despairingly at the generous length of the narrow skirt. She lifted it as she would have liked it to be cut if possible. That disclosed the heavy leather high shoes, at sight of which she looked positively ill and hastily dropped the skirt. Locking the case again, she hid the key and hurried down the trail.

She followed it around the north end of the swamp and then struck into a footpath crossing a farm in the direction of the apex of the city to the northeast. Again she climbed a fence and was on the open road. For an instant she leaned against the fence, staring before her, then turned and looked back. Behind her lay the land on which she had been born to drudgery and a mother who made no pretense of loving her. Before her lay the city, through whose streets she hoped to find means of escape and the way to reach the thoughts for which she longed. When she thought of how she looked she learned more heavily against the fence and grumbled. When she thought of turning back and wearing such clothing in ignorance all the days of her life she set her teeth firmly and went hastily toward Onondaga.

She approached the great stone high school building, entered bravely and inquired her way to the office of the superintendent. There she learned that she should have come the week before and arranged for her classes.

"I finished last spring at Brushwood school, district No. 9," said Elmore. "I have been studying all summer. I am quite sure I can do the first year work if I have a few days to get started."

"Of course, of course," assented the superintendent. "Almost invariably country pupils do good work. You may enter first year, and if you don't it we will find it out shortly. Your teachers will tell you the list of books you must have, and if you will come with me I will show you the way to the auditorium. It is now time for opening exercises. Take any seat you find vacant." He was gone.

Elmore stood before the entrance and stared into the largest room she ever had seen. The floor sloped down to a yawning stage, on which a band of musicians, grouped around a grand piano, were tuning their instruments. Every one else was seated, but no one paid any attention to the white faced girl standing half blindly down the aisle next the farthest wall. No one went on to the very end facing the stage. "No," she moved, and she could not summon courage to crowd past others to several empty seats she saw. At the end of the aisle she paused in desperation as she stared back at the whole forest of faces, most of which were now turned upon her.

In one burning flash came the full realization of her scanty dress, her pitiful little hat and ribbon, her big, heavy shoes, her ignorance of where to go or what to do, and from a sickening wave which crept over her she felt she was going to become very ill. Then out of the mass she saw a pair of big brown boy eyes three seats from her, and there was a message in them. Without moving his body he reached forward and with a pencil touched the back of the seat before him. Instantly Elmore took another step, which brought her to a row of vacant front seats.

She heard the giggle behind her. The knowledge that she wore the only hat in the room burned her. Every matter of moment and some of none at all cut and stung. She had no books. Where should she go when this was over? What would she give to be on the trail going home!

Before she realized what was coming every one had risen and the room was emptying rapidly. Elmore hurried after the nearest girl and in the press at the door touched her sleeve timidly. "Will you please tell me where the freshmen go?" she asked huskily.

The girl gave her one surprised glance and drew away.

"Same place as the fresh women," she answered, and those nearest her laughed.

Elmore stopped praying suddenly, and the color swept into her face. "I'll wager you are the first person I met when I found it," she said and stopped short. "Not that! Oh, I must not do that!" she thought in dismay. "Make an enemy the first thing I do--oh, not that!"

She followed with her eyes as the young people separated in the hall, some climbing stairs, some disappearing down side halls, some entering doors near by. She saw the girl overtake the brown eyed boy and speak to him, and he glanced back at Elmore, and now there was a scowl on his face. Then she stood alone in the hall.

Presently a door opened and a young woman came out and entered another room. Elmore waited until she returned and hurried to her. "Would you tell me where the freshmen are?" she panted.

"Straight down the hall, three doors to your left," was the answer as the girl passed.

"One minute, please--oh, please!" begged Elmore. "Do I knock or just open the door?"

"Go in and take a seat," replied the teacher.

"What if there aren't any seats?" gasped Elmore.

"Classrooms are never half filled. There will be plenty," was the answer.

Elmore removed her hat. There was no place to put it, so she carried it in her hand. She looked infinitely better without it. After several efforts she at last opened the door and, stepping inside, faced a smaller and more

VALUABLE ADVICE

Janesville Citizens Should Profit By the Following Statement.

Don's Kidney Pills cured this Janesville resident.

Their merit was shown--the story told.

Now comes further evidence. The testimony is confirmed.

The remedy was tested--the cure lasted.

Could Janesville residents demand stronger proof?

It's Janesville testimony. It can be investigated.

C. F. Foster, 1017 Wheeler street, Janesville, Wis., says: "For several months I was in poor health and my system seemed to be filled with uric poison. My back ached intensely and I had but little strength or energy. I decided to try a good kidney medicine, and as I had often heard Don's Kidney Pills highly spoken of, I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. It did not take this remedy long to bring me entire relief. At that time I publicly told of my experience and during the years that have since passed, I have not changed my high opinion of Don's Kidney Pills. Whenever I use this remedy, it does good work."

concentrated battery of eyes. "He seated," said the professor in charge of the class, and then, because he saw Elmore was desperately embarrassed, he proceeded to lend her a book and to ask her if she had studied algebra. She said she had a little, but not the same book they were using. He asked her if she felt that she could do the work they were beginning, and she said she did.

That was how it happened that three minutes after entering the room she was compelled to take her place at the blackboard beside the girl of the hall, whose flushed face and ailing eyes avoided meeting Elmore's. Being compelled to concentrate on her proposition, she forgot herself. When the professor asked that all pupils sign their work she firmly wrote "Elmore Comstock" under her demonstration. Then she took her seat and blushed as one after another the professor called the names on the board, while their owners arose and explained their propositions or thanked if they had not found a correct solution. She was so eager to correct their forms of expression and prepare herself for her recitation that she never took her eyes from the work on the board until clearly and distinctly "Elmore Comstock" called the professor.

The dazed girl stared at the board. One tiny curl added to the top of the first curve of the "m" in her name had transformed it from a good old English patronymic that any girl might bear proudly in Cornstock. Elmore stared speechless. How and how did it happen? She could feel the wave of smothered laughter in the air around her. A flush of anger turned her face scarlet and her soul sick. A hot answer was on her lips. The voice of the professor addressed her straightly. "This proposition seems to be beautifully demonstrated, Miss Comstock," he said. "Surely you can tell us how you did it."

Tip the Assistant.

A word to those who may be planning for the first time to go to some famous Paris house for their gowns. The assistant must be tipped. Otherwise one might sit unnoticed for a long time, with every one seemingly too busy to heed. An assistant must be seized as she passes and embraced, after which miracles will occur. A very good tip will even, at the end, after one or two frocks have been purchased, bring forth from some remote recess a "bargain," and it will be one in verity.

Two or Four Kinds of Women.

Someone--probably one of those Frenchmen whose life job it was to make epigrams--once said that there are but two kinds of women: good women and bad women. Ever since then problem playwrights have been putting that fiction into the mouths of wronged husbands and building of wronged wives. There are four kinds: good women, bad women, good bad women and bad good women. And the worst of these is the last--American Magazine.

are mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malarial germs in the blood. Then follow the icy chills and the fever. The appetite fails and the strength fails; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But electric Bitters kill and cast out the malarial germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Protwell, of Lucama, N. C., "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. See at People's Drug Co.

SEC. KNOX VISITING RUINS OF OLD PANAMA CITY
VISITING RUINS OF PANAMA CITY

Secretary Knox (indicated by arrow) and party visiting the ruins of old Panama City. This photograph shows the party within the ruins of the tower. This ancient city founded in 1519, is one of the oldest relics of Panama and yet strange to say many of the inhabitants made their first trip to the ruins with the Knox party. People who have lived a lifetime within a short distance of the ancient city have never manifested enough interest to even view the ruins.

AMBASSADOR SAYS
MADERO MISJUDGED

Ambassador Manuel Calero.

Manuel Calero, the new Mexican Ambassador, arrived recently in Washington. He brings a plea that the American people are misjudging the present Mexican turmoil and emphatically states that the disturbances accompanying the rapid political changes in the Mexican government are necessary for the securing of a permanent democracy.

Mrs. Charles N. Pray.
Mrs. Charles N. Pray, wife of Congressman Pray, of Montana, is a charming hostess and very popular in Congressional circles at Washington.

Fair Reasoning.
Tommy (after a long, lingering survey of his uncle, who has lost an arm and a leg for his country)—"Is that why you are on half pay, uncle?"

Little Waldo Suffers.
"It's disgusting," said Mrs. Waldo Beacouhill of Boston; "the makers of children's books never think of putting Greek letters on them; and there is my poor little Emerson simply dying of ennui for the want of a good fairy tale in words of moderately extensive syllabification."

Rewards of Great Living.
The rewards of great living are not external things, withheld until the crowning hour of success arrives; they come by the way—in the consciousness of growing power and worth, of duties nobly met and work thoroughly done. Joy and peace are by the way.—Hamilton W. Mabie.

Cure for Nerves.
People cultivate nerves to a large extent and do not apply simple rules to cure them. Healthy work, particularly out of doors, is an excellent antidote to nerves. Onions are a very good tonic for nervous people. Cranberries are good for sufferers from inactive liver.

BEAUTIFUL ARCHITECTURE TO GRACE CALIFORNIA EXPOSITION.
San Diego, Cal.—Aside from the international interest centered in San Francisco Exposition to be known as the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, particular interest centers in the local exposition, which, while not as extended in its scope, is nevertheless of unusual importance to the West. It will have thousands of interesting exhibits and while the rivalry was formerly intense for the location here of the International Exposition, this spirit of the State.

MISS YVONNE STEMMLER
MISS HELEN RICH
SOCIETY MILLINERS.

New York.—A score or more well known society women gathered at the home of Mrs. Henry L. Burnett and filled their needles with a vim, turning out pretty spring bonnets, which are to be distributed among one hundred and eight little maids of the Sunday School-Kindergarten Association, who, for good behavior, have won a prize of an Easter hat.
The contest will constitute three sessions, after which the hats made by the women will be judged by a colony of English sparrows in the fall, when the martins vacated them for their winter sojourn in the sunny south. The martins returned and engaged in a pitched battle for possession of their former nesting place. The martins won out in the contention and regained possession of their homes.

True Road to Happiness.
Whenever unselfish love is the mainspring of men's actions; wherever happiness is placed not on what we can get for ourselves, but on what we can impart to others; wherever we place our satisfaction in gratifying our fathers and mothers, our brothers and sisters, our wives and children, our neighbors and friends, we are sure to attain all the happiness which the world can bestow.
